Have you given your power away?

Power has been a challenge throughout history. As a spiritual healer, we have often cleared all lifetimes as client has had when in power, when having given power away, having been disempowered, their misuse of power, etc. After clearing it for myself, my next client asked if I bought a new telephone system because I sounded so different.

When we separated from God to come here, we were somewhat powerless dependent on others, especially our parents for our care. Depending on how we were raised, we may have been taught certain lessons impacting how we related to power. I was raised to give my power away to others.

Many give their power away to those who have empowered themselves and speak the loudest. Archangel Michael said in "Wisdom of the Guardian":

"But those who know, usually remain quiet because they fear being ridiculed. They give their power to these louts because they are afraid of what people will say and think of them. What does it matter if it's the truth? Wouldn't you rather take a stand for what you know and believe, than cower to those who are ignorant because you value their opinion of you? The need for acceptance has held mankind back from full self-expression for eons because they are more worried about what people think of them than what job they are to do while living on this planet."

Some examples of giving your power away:

- Have you ever listened to the news or social media assuming what was said was the truth and made it your own?
- Have you attended a religious service and assumed the person giving the sermon had a better connection to God than you?
- Have you ever read something somewhere, including an advertisement, and assumed it correct because it was in print?
- Have you automatically followed what an authority figure dictated because they were just that, an figure of authority?

It is easy to make assumptions and give our power away to others when they act as if they know. But, who knows? God mentioned the other day during a clearing, "What is right?" You can hear the brief snippet here. So many think and act as if they are right. It is easy to follow someone who believes they are right. But, are they?

No matter who says what and how credentialed and confident they are, check in with God and learn to discern truth before passing judgment, making choices, and potentially diminishing your outcomes because you haven't accessed the all-knowing and the big picture.

I know how challenging it is to get clarity from God. He is there with all the answers and the love to want benefit you with the highest guidance. Unfortunately, humanity has been sabotaged and blocked from really having personal clarity.

As a global healer, one of the focuses we have had is to clear the outside sabotage from those blocking that connection to access the all-knowing for those valued insights. The other is to clear the individual and how they have been personally blocked. Fortunately, spiritual healing can heal both. But, the individual must become acutely aware of what is real and unreal, best versus diminished options to get the best results.

Even though God has asked me to help people connect better so he can help more, I have personally seen how challenging that can be for some. It's easier than ever for the average person to now connect directly to Source for their own answers because so much of the outside sabotage has been lifted. The trick still lies in discerning God from others or ego. As someone who speaks directly with God, Jesus, the other ascended masters, archangels, etc., I can tell you their personalities and the way they convey information differs. They have their own perspectives and way of delivering information that differs. And, they don't always agree. Going directly to God is the best option of all of them. I look, forward, however, to the day when all can get their own messages clearly.

I have helped a number of clients become able to channel God directly and it warms my heart to see them gain the clarity in guidance appropriate to them. The more who are aligned with God and the highest and best, the more the world will be in peace and balance.

May you successfully connect to Source with ease...

Love,

Joy
