It's My Birthday!

Have you ever experienced a midlife or identity crisis when your birthday approached? Well I just did. Age itself doesn't bother me. I'm probably older than most if you consider the beginning of my original creation. Being an old soul is an understatement!

But taking into consideration only this lifetime, I could easily experience concerns about my age but to me I'm ageless. Age is not just a number. It is the thoughts and beliefs you attach to the number that means something. It is also the programming you have that contributes to how you look and feel at whatever age you are. Letting go of the thoughts that age us, helps us prevent and reverse the signs of aging.

Now, that we've moved into a new world, the vibrations of this dimension can help us reverse the aging process. Since we are moving into heaven on earth, we can also reverse our aging just like what can happen in heaven. When you connect with those in heaven, they can reveal themselves in a variety of ages. I've even seen my parents appear as a young couple.

I decided I wanted to stay the age of 35 because that added up to an 8 and the sign of infinity. I thought a good age for looks and vibrant energy as well as eternal living.

Well, that's the age part of the birthday.

The identity crisis, however, was something else. I was surprised at how deflated I felt after moving into the new world, the most exciting time in history and in the universe right now. A time I came here to help transition and worked toward my whole life. I was excited but all the work I had done to get here was now over. Now what?

I woke up the first day of the new world knowing this was truly a new beginning for all and Archangel Michael said my new assignment would be to lead people out of darkness. Couldn't I get a day off?

As I moved into October, I knew it was time to plan my future and the work I was now guided to do. Archangel Michael had given me a new workshop to deliver to help humanity move into this new dimension of reality more easily. I had some glimpses of some of the work we would be doing going forward but I was exhausted. I was feeling funny for a variety of reasons, some of which I contributed to my upcoming birthday.

What was really going on, however, is that it was time to let go of Michael's energies. When Archangel Michael came to my in 2004 and told me I was him incarnate asking me to join him in a healing practice, I asked him why was I a woman. He said it was purposeful. When it was finally clarified years later that I was his twin flame, which meant I was more the feminine side of the same soul, it meant his other half, Faith, was more my true self.

Carrying their mutual soul, however, allowed Michael to work through me more easily in the efforts for us to fight the cause of darkness on the planet. His energies could lower further through a human carrying a portion of his soul so the darkness could be dealt with more effectively on the planet.

Now that the cause of darkness has been successfully cleared (we still need address the effects of darkness that still runs rampant), it was time for Michael to retreat. He had been part of my life for so long, it felt like we were getting a divorce. He was my go-to guy for everything. He was my other half and a major part of my life and work.

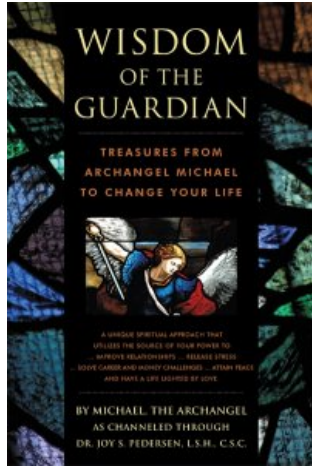

Archangel Faith said one day, it was time to push him out. He is a guy after all and it was time for me to bring forth her feminine energies. One of the benefits was that expressing more of the feminine energies would help me receive as well as bring forth other experiences such as the divine feminine for humanities benefit.

I had within this being of Joy Pedersen, a personality of Joy, as well as my high self of Faith and my twin who worked with and through me since 2004.

It wasn't easy to let go of Michael. He can still work through me. He did today as we dealt with darkness during a client session and I felt like a furnace while doing so. He will always be with me as my protector. But, going forward, I was being instructed to now have Faith's instruction vs. Michael's. I am to work with him in clearing darkness as well as explaining our work clearing it so far. We still have many historical events to share and as far as that's concerned, he will be the one to answer those questions and provide guidance.

The future, however, is about Faith and bringing forth the divine feminine. The old world was a masculine-run one. This new world will be more about the divine feminine to bring back balance and provide the necessary healing to do just that. The future beyond this period, however long this period may last, will be one in balance between the masculine and the feminine. Faith also said that we will be hearing more from Mother God, the twin flame of God.

So my whole body and all my belongings had to be re-calibrated to Faith's energy. I had to be willing to relinquish the self I knew to bring forth my high self with whom I was less familiar. As my body went through the physical and energetic shifts I noticed differences. One, I was exhausted as the cellular changes occurred. I had to deal with the emotional shifts as well. Ultimately, I ended up feeling like a whole new person and one that was much more peaceful.

Ever since a child, I felt compelled to conquer the world. I had no idea that I was here to conquer the world of darkness. I no longer feel that same drive. I hadn't gotten much sleep during these years of focused battle with darkness conscious of my role, which sometimes brought late night assignments. I am now sleeping again!

With the masculine energy, I always felt compelled to do. For the first time, I feel like just being. What a difference that is! I am much more relaxed and calm. I am grateful.

The identity crisis is over but I am still adjusting to the new me. I look forward to sharing the news of the future from Faith. And, I'm sure Michael will still chime in!

Faithfully yours,
Joy
