Happy New Year and What's New for New Year

I hope you enjoyed your holidays!

As much as I enjoyed seeing friends and family, I did not see enough people when I traveled to New Jersey to visit. I had an unexpected deadline for a new book and had to write and submit the manuscript by 12/27/15 and it put a real kink into visiting. I sat at the airport heading north with my computer on my lap and began. I tried to compile as many purposeful channeled messages as I could, in the timeframe given, along with adding my own personal experience.

The last decade working with Archangel Michael has been extraordinary. I know when people read much of what is written, they will find it hard to believe. Those of you who know I have been approached to do a movie on my life, will now know why once you have a chance to read "Clear Your Past and Change Your Future".

After going through my computer looking for channeled messages that explained some of what we experienced, I was surprised by how many messages I had received from God over the years. It turns out that much of the content is now really from God. He explains his own history, the history of the fallen angels as well as shares other insights to improve your future.

The whole project was divinely guided and supported. When I struggled with what to say, God came through in the morning to open one of the sections. Those that were meant to help, were inspired to offer.

One night when working late on it, God came through with the instructions to stop as it was not appropriate to sacrifice myself even in service to him. I was blowing the deadline because I hadn't had a chance to even reread it. He said he would fix it on the other end and he must have because they said it was not a problem even though they had a tight deadline they were dealing with to format, etc.

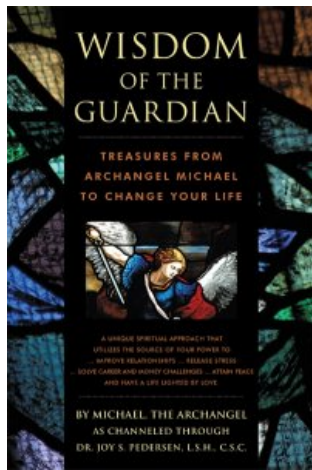

The company that is putting this all together is also hosting me on a Transformation Summit at the end of the month, when I will be sharing my story in a webinar. You'll hear more about that as the time gets closer.

I have also been putting together material for a Sacred Stories Tele-summit and my interview will be February 1. Apparently, they have an interest in hearing about how darkness has undermined humanity causing much of your problems.

As I have mentioned before, my business model is changing. We are implementing new programs, etc. and I have a lot of work to do going forward. Right now nothing has changed for my regular clients and may not as we make the transition.

Also, over the Christmas holidays, I signed a contract to speak at Lily Dale, New York, July 21, so I will now be planning other speaking events and visits with friends and clients during the summer while up north.

I was grateful to see a few of my clients at a group healing we did in New Jersey. I was delighted that God came through with a wonderful message as did Archangel Faith followed by a new process by Archangel Michael shared connecting the participants with their twin flames.

So that was my holiday in a nutshell other than this piece below on The Brooklyn Bridge.

Wishing you a wonderful weekend and new year!

Faithfully yours,
Joy

The Brooklyn Bridge

My big day off, or so I thought, was January 1 when I was whisked into New York. We shared the inspiration to walk across the Brooklyn Bridge after getting there. Upon walking it, I noticed there really was a portal there.

I always thought the movie, "Kate and Leopold" was so much fun. If you've seen the movie, you will know why I mention it as they feature a portal at the Brooklyn Bridge.

I just asked what was the significance and this is Archangel Michael's response:

"Yes, you, in fact, crossed a portal at the Brooklyn Bridge. It was purposeful that you went there as you provided a new opening of increased energies for its expansion. That light will now help pour in benefiting New Yorkers in ways they cannot yet fathom.

Those of you that have embraced the light, will see many more changes in the days to come. Be mindful and present for they will unfold gently, but steadily, bringing more possibilities to those who embrace them."
