Wisdom of the Guardian

Heaven is better than the best day on earth.

Today is my Dad's birthday. In honor of that, I wanted to share some insights from heaven. When he died in August, 2006, I was called by my sister-in-law and was asked if I wanted to see his body before they took him away. I didn't feel the need as I knew his spirit was already gone.

I then connected with God, and he shared with me a couple of comments, including that my father was already with him. He also told me that my father would come to me later in the week and will tell me something monumental.

That Friday he appeared and I asked him how he was doing. His response was, "Heaven is better than the best day on earth!"

During the week, I saw more butterflies than I had seen in my whole life cumulatively to date. It was so outstanding that I knew there to be a connection with my Dad's passing.

Although I was relieved my father was in a better place, that didn't stop me from crying my eyes out at his memorial service.

I thought my Dad extraordinary. He was honest, had a great sense of integrity and a dry sense of humor along with a light-heartedness that I would miss interacting with in the physical. He could always make me smile with his wit and he could do many things with his hands.

He built me this playhouse where I spent hours in with my friends playing with my kitchen set and friends.

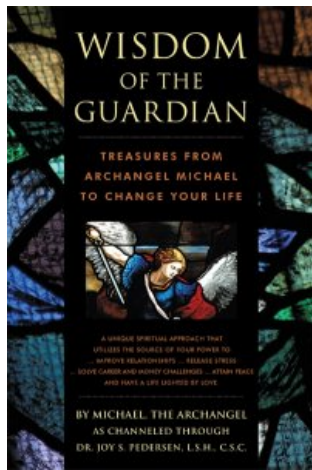

As I write this, it is not only in honor of my Dad but to share elements of this most significant transition in life because it is part of life that we all experience to a different degree at different times throughout it. Life and death come hand in hand.

It was at that memorial service, that we included in the program lines from a piece of paper that my father carried in his wallet. God shared almost those identical words with me that morning he passed so we include both although at the time I couldn't share with others the significance. God obviously knew everything about him.

Since then, I have spoken to my Dad on many occasions. Sometimes he comes to tell me something and other times I call out to him and he comes. On one occasion, I tried reaching him and Jesus came and said that my father couldn't come because he was working someplace and unable to but offered to share that and be an intermediary.

On another occasion, my father came and wanted to communicate and I was wrapped up in work and when I went to tune in to see what he had to say, he was already gone. Archangel Michael said that they can't necessarily come and stay as easily as he or angels. However, he was able to convey the message my father had for me.

The last time I saw him, he accompanied my mom to speak to me but stayed in the background while we spoke. Upon our finishing, she returned to him and together they walked away holding hands looking very much like a young couple.

Heaven is a very special place but so is earth. And, what's really unique is that we are moving into a time when we can experience the benefits of heaven along with the benefits of earth. Heaven on earth is here as is the ability to connect with those in heaven more easily. It's all about where you vibrate. As you increase your vibration and awareness, all becomes more visible and possible to you now.

As I write this, my Dad appeared and below is the more global message he shared.

Wishing you a wonderful weekend.

Faithfully yours,
Joy

Message from My Dad

We all learn a lot more here in heaven than we allowed ourselves to notice or could see on earth. But, that being said, we don't have the same view point here either. We don't judge as harshly as we would have a tendency to do on earth. That doesn't mean some don't maintain those judgments if not ready to let them go. But, it is a vast difference here than the way we experience and judge things on earth. Because on earth, we judge by human standards. Here we judge more based on the standards of God, truth and the heart. What exists in the heart carries more meaning than what actions people take. Although people take many stupid, unproductive and hurtful actions, when you understand the heart, you understand all - the big picture - and what is behind those actions.

So, be gentle with yourselves first and foremost. And, treat others with kindness as they deserve much more compassion than anyone would realize.

The Significance of Butterflies

Every time I see a butterfly, I think of my Dad. But, I didn't realize the significance of them until I read a description from the book, "Animal-Speak" by Ted Andrews.

"New love and joy are coming. Transformation is inevitable but will be easier than expected. Embrace the new beginnings."

At times, I tune into see if my Dad is present and at others, I just assume he's sharing his presence. But, knowing the above, I am also reminded of transformation and new beginnings when I see a butterfly and just appreciate that message.

Birth is a new beginning for people here. Death is a new beginning for when they return home. If we can just accept "it is what it is", and that we will reunite with all when it is divine timing, then maybe we can experience less pain of the separation.
