Wisdom of the Guardian

Are you being fooled?

There are people who think I am nuts because my beliefs and predictions are not congruent with what they have been taught. Does that make me a fool or them?

One of my dear clients stated recently that she would rather believe than not because what I am teaching is positive in comparison to what some others are teaching.

What we have often been taught are fear-based ideas and future forecasts. What do these teachings do? They create a fear-based existence. Those fears project out into the world and create that which you likely don't prefer or fear will happen. What you believe to be true is what is projected out to become your reality.

God said recently to stop watching the media while it is still run by darkness, which you can read here. Are you being fooled to believe what they [the darkness who manipulates the media] promote? And, because they are promoting such darkness, are you then choosing to believe what they say over what heaven has been sharing that enlightens and promotes a positive future? Which would you prefer give your energy to? Which results do you prefer to experience?

Those that consider me to be fool, are resisting letting go of the propaganda they have previously been sold. Are you foolishly following that propaganda?

Wednesday, March 30, 2016, we celebrated the third anniversary of opening up Heaven on Earth. I know my promoting that event caused many to think I'm a fool as it couldn't be possible because of the evidence they continue to witness in the news and the challenges they experience on a daily basis.

Who is being foolish? Those who are attached to the struggles and old ways of doing things? Or, those of us who have been able to move out of that state into a life of ease that comes along with the qualities of Heaven on Earth. Joy, love, peace, balance, freedom and abundance are the ways of life experienced in general in Heaven on Earth. Those qualities are more appealing to me than what I previously experienced in the 3rd and 4th dimensions of reality. I much prefer the 5th dimension of reality and the qualities Heaven on Earth provides.

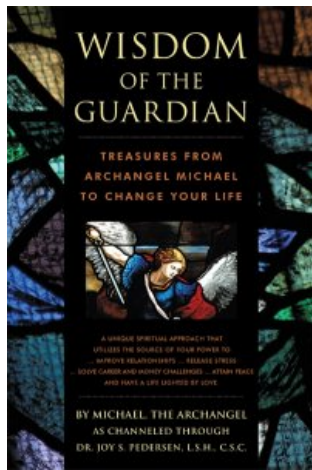

Whether or not these new qualities are familiar as an everyday occurrence, are they foolish to embrace because they haven't been the norm? Is it foolish to give up the old programming that created struggle to embrace the new programming of possibility that opens up and makes this new way of ease available?

Could you have potentially been fooled by those who have taught you fear? Could that fear have undermined the possibilities that exist for you? Are you being limited by fears and old programming?

Are you willing to take a chance and give up fear for the possibility of being fooled by faith in the unknown or unfamiliar? Are you willing to give up what you perceive as reality for a vision of the future that may be possible if you embrace it?

Do you fear appearing foolish for embracing a belief in God, light, or possibility when most are clinging to ideas that are limited in comparison?

What I see and know to be true in my life have taken me from an experience of life that was alright but contained fear, lack and limitation to an experience of joy, love, freedom, balance and abundance. So, if I have been foolishly taking guidance from an invisible world of God, angels and others that have lead me to a life of ease, I have no incentive to returning to an existence of evidence of the reality demonstrated by media and others.

Who would you prefer listening to - those operating in the dark teaching limiting beliefs and fears, or those operating in the light teaching love and limitlessness?

I'm going to continue looking foolish to others while I enjoy the fabulous life Heaven on Earth has opened to me. You can join me here or remain in the old world. The choice is yours. You have free will to be stuck and foolish or to be free and foolish. Which would you prefer?

So, this April fools day you get to choose.

Wishing you a wonderful weekend.

Faithfully yours,
Joy
