Understanding Divine Timing

Divine timing has come up a lot lately for me. I have had the opportunity to experience it from a variety of standpoints.

For example, the timing of the newsletter. I committed to doing this every Friday. On occasion it doesn't get done. Sometimes my best plans get altered by jobs heaven orchestrates for me. That I would say is more divine timing and something they want take precedence over what I had in mind. Of course, there's always the opportunity I drop the ball and don't get it done. But, does it matter in the long run? Likely not.

The important thing is to be aware of divine timing. I had been dealing with an issue with another person recently and divine timing was definitely experienced when I would have preferred my own instead. It left me feeling a bit helpless as I had no way of altering divine timing. God has a tendency to win in these battles!

I have seen divine timing take place regarding world events and the behind the scenes activities that go on where heaven is trying to help humanity or the world at large. There was certainly divine timing when we transitioned into the new world and there's certainly divine timing with the influx of light during this period of ascension of both the planet and the people on it.

Now, that I am transitioning to the next phase of my work, there is divine timing also at hand. They are preparing me for the next chapter, which will be very different than the last phase of my work. During that processing, anything about stepping out into the new work and world prematurely is delayed by the timing relating to my process and all other elements involved.

It is important to understand and accept divine timing as well as know when there is opportunity to alter it.

The following article will elaborate more on the subject of understanding divine timing. To read it, click here.

And, regarding my new role going forward, my work is to become more public and rather than be limited to private sessions alone, do more group work and possibly of the masses. There's been a lot of preparation for that and much resistance on my part, but I have agreed to it.

Toward that end, I have committed to speaking at Lily Dale NY on July 21. Because that requires travel up north, I would like to schedule more speaking opportunities around the New Jersey and New York area before or after that event. I have, therefore, prepared this Synopsis of my work with Archangel Michael, which will be the focus of the teachings, no matter what format decided upon. So, if you are in that area and would recommend an opportunity to share how we've cleared the cause of darkness to help bring forth heaven on earth and how you can benefit from releasing some of the negative impact darkness has had on you, you can read more about that work here.

I need create those opportunities quickly to determine travel arrangements as have considered also driving so no need to rush and can visit friends and family a bit more leisurely this trip. If you are up north, I hope to see you in July.

Wishing you a wonderful weekend.

Faithfully yours,

Joy
