Do you have a calling?

a major opportunity he he wanted on a soul level. Possibly more than we realize.

Have you heard the statement, "Many are called; few are chosen"?

I don't think that is the case. I think many are called and most don't step up to the plate. There are many reasons for that and it may not even be intentional avoidance.

I do recall, however, that last year when someone close to me was called and the message was delivered to him through me, that he said he was not interested. I wonder how often that actually occurs? Possibly more than we realize. I also wonder if he will feel something is missing for him and be sorry when he returns to Heaven realizing he missed a major opportunity he he wanted on a soul level. Possibly more than we realize.

My typical client is someone who is an old soul with a high calling and some blocks. I even have a client who has a calling to help others find theirs, which was something we discovered in one of our sessions. My focus is always helping people release their blocks to discovering what it is or being able to fully demonstrate the possibilities from doing it.

As I mentioned in last week's newsletter, that I personally had a quandary as to what to do next. It's an unusual position to be in to have been told you already succeeded at your calling. I'm thrilled to have fulfilled my requirements for coming here. And, yet I sit being called again for another phase of the position. It was likely also determined before coming here, but having attained Heaven on Earth and the milestone of completion, I did still have free will as to whether to move forward or not. Actually, I couldn't think of anything else I'd rather do but still unsure as to the specifics. But, all have free will on this planet so anyone can actually turn down the opportunity if it is presented as an opportunity.

In thinking about the dynamics of being called, I wrote an article, "When You Are Called" to share with you that you can read here.

One of the reasons it has come to mind is also watching people who have fear come up that are becoming distracted unintentionally sabotaging following their calling. It is easy to become distracted not realizing fear is the culprit. Hopefully, the article will help address some of that.

If you are fulfilling your calling, congratulations to you. You are doing what you came to Earth to do. You are a contributing member of society fulfilling the piece of the puzzle you were meant to fill. Every one of you are here for a purpose. The more of you who do the job they came here to do, the more positions that are not optimal for them can be filled by those they are more optimal for to fill. By each of us doing what we are here to do, the more the world is an expression of balance. It would also make for a happier world overall as well.

Wishing you a wonderful weekend.

Faithfully yours,

Joy
