Joyful News - 5/26/17

I was introduced to my inner child in 1986. I discovered an unknown and invisible world that existed that could enhance or block my own goals. I also discovered that I could see and speak with them. I often work directly with the my client's inner child to uncover their hidden blocks to their success. What a gift! And, I don't just mean the gift I have of seeing and speaking with them but the gift to understanding who they are and how to work with them that we can all benefit from to enhance our success. Learning of this hidden aspect to our lives has been extremely beneficial and has made life sweeter and easier.

When my business slowed down for a couple of weeks a few years ago, she was the one I went to first to ask why. She told me why, so I got us back in sync, and she directed me to my next client within the hour.

The next article elaborates on the inner child. The call below is set up to work with them to help them let go of the hidden data that is sabotaging your success.

Wishing you a wonderful weekend.

Blessings,

Joy

Understanding Your Inner Child

The inner child is often ignored and it is the part of you that manifests what you desire. Unfortunately being out of sync with him or her, causes challenges in the end result. They need to be in balance with your high self (father aspect) and the conscious (mother aspect) of yourself or problems are created from the imbalances affecting your experiences..

I work with them all the time in my work identifying the causal issues of problems to spiritually heal them. They access the subconscious memory bank and computer to retrieve the information requested to release during our work.

You should have a name for them or they can give you their name. You can dialogue with them and some actually see them. They are different ages depending on their development.

They may leave you when stressed, overworked, during illness, etc. which then creates a lot of other issues. If your tear ducts are sunken, it indicates they are not present with you and you need call them in. If they are not with you, it is harder to remember the things you need remember and if not with you at the gym, it is harder to exercise. If gone, it is also hard to focus. When they are not with you, it is easier to take on possessions

(which is more common than you think).

Treat them as you would treat your own child in the physical and keep them with you. Reward them for their hard work. Love them and appreciate them.

I realize this is a new concept for many but it beyond important to understand because it affects all areas of life, business, success and wellbeing.

Global Healing as Well as Yours

We have decided to enhance the focus on the group clearing call this month on global healing. Although it is included each month, we will fine tune some of what is included to make an even bigger difference in the world going forward. As you know, the world needs lots of help right now!

We are still including the specific energy clearing and clearing of your own challenges we usually do as well as the added focus on fathers, fatherhood and patriarchal society that blocks your abundance as well as issues of fathers day. Because we all have fathers, have the father aspect within our inner family as our high self, and have been fathers in other lives if not this one, the call pertains to all. All benefit whether living or not, on the call or not.
