The Power of Repentance

I shared a story on repentance on Sunday at our workshop connecting with God that I felt inspired to share with you today. I've been working toward Heaven on Earth for decades. I didn't want to miss the time of ascension and did not want to miss the boat so to speak.

I don't remember the impetus for my concern one particular Wednesday years ago, but I most certainly had fear I could miss that opportunity. I realize now that some darkness influenced the fear of missing out on the opportunity to ascend and reach Heaven on Earth. Darkness has created much fear of God, fear overall, and limited thinking. For those who do not realize the benefits of reaching Heaven on Earth, it is a location in consciousness that provides the feeding around for a life of ease, joy, love, peace, balance, freedom and abundance. I would assume most desire that experience over any lack or struggle.

That day, in particular, I went to bed, where I do a lot of my own healing, and knelt in the middle of my bed and repented for everything I have ever done that could block my ascending. I didn't know what that included but it was heartfelt and sincere.

Upon that exercise, I ascended to the gates of Heaven but was rejected! It wasn't time for me to go to Heaven and stay there so they sent me back. To do so, however, they gave me boots that reminded me of the old milk cans when milk was hand delivered to your door. That can would hold the bottles within on your doorstep. These boots, however, were inflatable and could be adjusted so it would weigh me down and keep me on Earth.

The challenge of this experience was that I felt like I was floating three feet off the ground for days after that. We discovered my spirit didn't fully integrate back into my body. Fortunately my chiropractor in New Jersey recognized the dynamic after having worked with babies who were born without their soul being fully integrated and has helped them push the spirit in to be fully on Earth. It was wild.

Ascending shouldn't bring up these dynamics for you. People ascend all the time without dramatic experiences such as these. I'm sharing the story as an example of something that could happen on one end of the spectrum. However, the benefits to ascending overall exist when you repent for your mistakes. As an aside, I can now go back and forth to Heaven and there's not an issue about staying or not, integrating back into my body or not. It's actually quite extraordinary but that isn't the point of this article, which is the benefit of repentance.

As part of our private sessions, as well as the monthly group healings, there is a form of repentance built into the clearing session. But, I shared an example of how I did it for myself by repenting in the moment. We have all made mistakes. I think the mistake going forward though is holding onto the past and not letting it go. Why limit your abilities, capabilities, opportunities, prosperity, health and wellbeing by holding onto the past? When you release your mistakes, you raise your vibration and open the door for additional possibility.

Let go of your mistakes. Hopefully, you learned from them and now you can just let them go and move on to experience a life of ease and freedom. Repent and soar!

Much love,

Joy
