Joyful News - March 6, 2019

The guy I referred to a couple of newsletters ago happened to have read my newsletter and was apparently offended as he unfriended and unsubscribed. I never intended this newsletter being the way he discovered that his ego prevented Archangel Michael from becoming his high self. It also may have been the realization I eluded to his high self having been a fallen angel

When we suffered challenges and I told him darkness was sabotaging our relationship, he was in denial immediately. One of the challenges of having a high self of a fallen angel or having darkness within someone's DNA is that darkness can work through the person unknown by the conscious mind to undermine outcomes.

There are a number of spiritually evolved people, who also believe they are serving the light, that can be serving the light in one instance and in another unknowingly serving the darkness. I have seen it often over the years. The biggest problem is the denial of the person to recognize or accept that darkness can infiltrate them. Most don't realize they were born with darkness within to play on this planet. It was necessary in order to create separation and learn from the experience in a world of duality.

There are four spiritual leaders right now that I know have demons within and they believe they are serving God and often are. Ego, fear and anger are some of the biggest door openers for allowing darkness or demons in. It's not just that their ego denies the possibility, but it is a lack of education on the subject of demons and darkness so people understand and accept the dynamics. Rather than being offended or become fearful of the subject, it is to become savvy, empowered and hopefully more effective by the awareness.

This is a world where we learn the hard way often - largely through the experience of karma and learning lessons through experience. It's time to clear darkness, as well as karma, to set all free to move into Heaven on Earth and into the new golden age.

Even if someone is or was a fallen angel, it is no different than if you had a child that failed a test. You still love them and try to help them pass their test in the future. You hopefully don't ostracize them for having failed at something. Have you passed every test you were presented, whether one of a spiritual nature, or a physical test during your formal education, throughout your years of school? I would assume that you would appreciate the kindness of others while you try and find your way to succeed at the lesson.

When this man's high self left him returning to the light, he apologized saying it was necessary and that he loved me. I was touched at the same time feeling distraught over the whole ordeal. I don't understand the whole dynamic. I only clear as guided.

It's time everyone return to the light and one way is by not sitting in judgment of others. At the same time, you can recognize when darkness has the upper hand and not succumb to it either by becoming less than love yourself. You can choose your alignments and have boundaries, while still having love and forgiveness within your heart.

Blessings,

Joy
