Conscious Coupling

No matter how someone comes to meet, they have the power to choose. They can choose who they are going to be, how they are going to show up, and what they are willing to bring to the relationship. They can also come to an agreement as to how the relationship should or could unfold.

Most of this happens unconsciously. People aren't aware if they met due to a divine appointment, or out of subconscious attraction to clear karma, fulfill a contract made in Heaven before coming, or help them heal as a stepping stone to the right relationship.

When you are conscious, you get to choose many things. When you commit and play full out, the biggest benefits are achieved because you are willing to bring your full self to the game. Those that play on the sidelines, often only get peripheral results. You get what you are willing to step up for at any given moment.

If the commitment to the relationship is to bring honesty, your best self, an open heart and a willingness to see the other person as they are and support them where they are, you are being more genuine and generous. When you hold back, you create limitations.

The other aspect of relationships is taking into consideration that all people are the sum total of their pasts. Their ancestral programming and karma is included and influencing the outcomes. I have clients who come to me to clear their new relationships so we can remove any darkness from within, karma and other negative influences that could undermine the relationship. I often do that for people when they marry as well. I clear the family and ancestors along with the bride and groom. I will also clear the upcoming wedding because when you clear the energy of the room, it elevates it. When you clear with the guests and expectations and hidden challenges and agendas, you also improve outcomes and experiences for all.

Because June is a big month for weddings, we will be clearing past and upcoming weddings as well as relationships, marriages and divorces to set all free from anything residual. The more the past is cleared, the brighter the future becomes.

With all issues, relationships, events and circumstances, always surrender it to God for the greatest potential. Unless you let God work through the situations fully, you are limiting the outcome to a degree.

Much love to you all.

Blessings,

Joy
