Do You Have Challenges with Work or Career?

Most people aren't doing their right work. What is your right work? The job you were born to do.

What happens because of that dynamic? You could be successful at a job and it still not be the right job for you. I had success in other careers and businesses but nothing is as fulfilling as has been following my calling. Hidden fears often blocks knowing or the fulfillment of one's calling.

Choosing a job for money, often creates karma. It takes away the job from the person who is meant to have it and you don't fulfill what you are meant to accomplish. If you aren't tuning in to know what is purposeful, you won't likely know. Keep in mind that you may have a calling that doesn't pay and receive money or are cared for in another way.

But, if you are in a job doing the best you can, you want to also make the best of the dynamics of which you are dealing currently. Many times karma from past lives negatively affects your interaction with others at work. That could be reflected with coworkers, vendors, clients, customers, or those who are part of your sales transactions.

Jobs may also demonstrate the same dynamics as your relationship with your parents. So, if you have challenges with your boss, see if they remind you of a parent. Are you doing a job or have a business because it was what your parents wanted? It may or may not be for you but you should have the clarity as to why you are choosing that. Whom are you serving - your parents or your soul?

Are you running a business and not getting enough sales? What are your hidden blocks to more business? The lack you experience in your sales may be connected to past lives or this lifetime of feeling undervalued. Often that happens from childhood as well. What were your parent's beliefs on money? They are often reflected in your current ability to make, receive and manage money.

There are also some unique challenges relating to the move from 3D to 5D. Some people are to fulfill their calling in 3D. I had one calling in 3D and an altered one suitable for 5D. You may have had one that crosses through both and is consistent. You may have one that will only begin in 5D as that is where your true purpose will kick in. Your entire path, however, likely supports you getting to where you need go so look for the clues along the way that will shed light on the possibilities.

Typical past lives and ancestral karma that may affect work and money are connected with memories within your DNA of either connected to slavery, gambling, types of jobs held, factory work, hard labor, prostitution, any form of trade, previous businesses, and difficulties getting or keeping work, jobs, clients, etc. The varying roles and responsibilities experienced and the negative memories associated with them can still have a limited outcome for you now.

Fortunately, we will be clearing these and many more concepts on Saturday and you can find those details below. But, also remember to always be tuning in and asking God what is purposeful and following your inspiration is key when surrendered to God.

The sooner all are in alignment with their true purpose, work, etc., the faster the world will work. But each and every time someone moves into their right work, they bring more alignment and possibility to that rebalanced effort. It all matters. You matter and what you do matters.

For those of you joining me Saturday, I look forward to chatting with you at 11. For those who haven't yet registered, link below.

Wishing you fulfillment of your soul's purpose and success with ease....

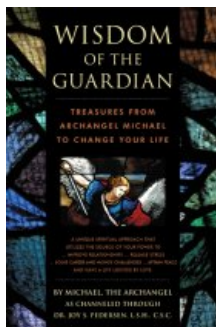

Blessings,

Joy
