Is The World Improving or Falling Apart?

I began spiritual healing in 1986 and have been doing it ever since. I have been working behind the scenes since then on world issues and the history of humanity to rebalance significant challenges in the world. So, I am going to speak to you from that perspective and experience.

All that happens in the physical begins in the spiritual first. If you want to create something you think about it before it is implemented in the physical. When you want to address a problem or create change, addressing the dynamics in the spiritual make it easier to rectify before lifting a finger in the physical. All clarified and aligned there makes taking action more effortless.

One of my main callings has been to rebalance the dark and light as the darkness was running the world and caused much challenge for all. While operating behind the scenes seeing the causal issues of humanity's problems, I have witnessed dramatic shifts from dark to light. Dealing directly with evil as a spiritual warrior, I personally experience the differences in how evil and darkness shows up behind the scenes.

What you are witnessing now is more like a glass of dirty sediment being shaken up and we are now noticing the dirt rise to the surface to be cleared off. One of the reasons I have been harping on people to clear their fear is that what was the global causal level contributing to many of their fears has largely been lifted. If they release their own fears that have become byproducts of the past, they would be set free. It is the programming now that is more a challenge within humanity than the actual darkness operating currently behind the scenes.

I still release demons and darkness from behind the scenes but demons even know that it is time for them to return to the light. It is no longer a significant battle with them. It is more that I say, 'time to leave and they agree' and that they move on rather than the fight that would previously ensue.

There is still darkness that is trying to control, but people need recognize it for what it is. It is the last vestiges of an old fight and they are losing and the light was always expected to win. So, there is nothing to fear really except what you are holding onto from the past that is limiting you at this time. Your own past memories are holding you back more than what is being done to you. When you change your past, you can change your future with more ease. The world and your experience is reflecting back your beliefs and emotions. That is why clearing and releasing that past will set you free to experience a whole new dynamic.

We are working diligently behind the scenes to open up the golden age for all. The world is only seemingly falling apart. From my standpoint, it is the most exciting time in history because I see what is occurring on the spiritual realm. It has become much more fun and easy working behind the scenes. That being said, there is darkness we are still lifting and it can be cumbersome and time consuming but I am witnessing great change. And, ultimately it is all looking great and moving in the right direction.

For example, when working on the New York Stock Exchange last week, it was amazing how much darkness was addressed and removed. Once the crud is removed from governments and institutions and you are set free from your own past, all can be rebalanced with ease. That is one reason we include government issues in our monthly call. Your past connections to governments from other lives, for example, plus your own fears and concerns, are released and it sets all free faster. Our next group call is to clear your money issues.

It is your job to work on yourself, let go of unhealed emotions, limited beliefs, and your karma so you are set free and can join us in the new golden age where we experience life with more joy and ease.

Wishing you the freedom to ascend to the new golden age and join us there...

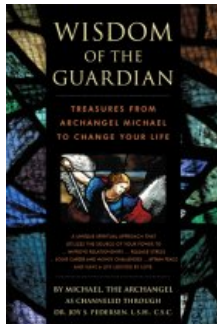

Blessings,

Joy
