Rebalancing the Divine Masculine and Feminine

This is the time of great change. We are moving into an era where the divine feminine will become more prominent. But, what does that actually mean and, of course, mean to men in general.

Within all is the divine masculine as well as the divine feminine. Humanity has been predominately ruled by men creating a patriarchal society. When anyone's masculine side dominates, they take on the qualities of doing versus being; taking action versus receiving. To have divine flow, you need both. When society became patriarchal, it denied or diminished the feminine. That created a world relying more on action. It forced men to block receiving and women to become dependent on men. The imbalances that created made it harder for all.

It is now time to heal from those imbalances. Each gender has both aspects within so within each individual the masculine and feminine must be rebalanced before society as a whole can become more balanced. The goal is to make it easier and create more flow between people and for all.

We have been working on a global level to restore that balance from a causal level and now it is time to balance within the individual. One of the discoveries was seeing the infinity symbol above. It demonstrated the way the divine masculine and feminine interacted as a regular course of existence. We also saw how it was impeded and needed rebalancing for the collective.

Divine Feminine

If we are moving into a divine feminine era, where does that leave men? Some men have felt threatened by the concept of women stepping into their power. It is never meant to diminish a man or his power. Women are now just lead to step up in a whole new way. They are now enabled to make more of a difference in the world offering their gifts and perspective. This allows both men and women to step into the arena where called at this time no matter their gender or preference.

Gender Roles

Gender roles and expectations as of late have become inconsistent and unexpected. Many don't know how to relate any longer. There aren't defined rules today as there once was. Many are making up the rules as they go along especially within partnerships because the times have changed. Baby boomers may have more of a challenge than the younger generation because their history has had more pronounced rules. Beliefs and patterns were set a long time ago and now they are expected to view life differently and it isn't always easy. That relates to both adopting a new perspective as well as new behaviors.

This will help move all to a place of balance within themselves and within the world. No one should have more power than another. All true power comes from the Source within. Without the balance between giving and receiving, it also may be blocking God from giving you what you want and need.

This is the time to begin looking at people as people and allowing them to align with their calling for this period of time regardless of their gender.

Some Suggestions:

- Look at how you are called and honor that as well as honor the callings of others no matter the typical gender role.
- Be open to being and receiving. Sometimes that means you need step back from doing all the time.
- Listen to that small voice within to lead and guide you when it is important to act or be.

If you have trouble with any of the above, we will be covering these issues, as well as a number of other concepts on June 6 relating to men. Whatever issues are impacting men this lifetime and others, as well as relationships and karma with men, sons, fathers, etc., will be included on our next group call which is listed below.

May you experience balance in all things...

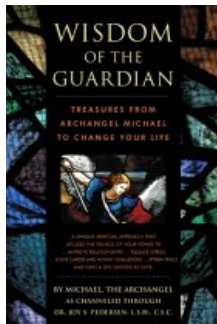

Love,

Joy
