Your 3 Most Important Fathers

Who are your 3 most important fathers? First and foremost God, your Creator. Without him, you wouldn't have been created. If he wasn't breathing through you now, you would cease to exist. You come to this planet and leave this planet on a mission for, from, and through God. When that mission is completed, you return to Heaven.

And, while here, if you aren't aligned with him and allowing him to work through you, you aren't reaching your ultimate potential.

Who is your second most important father? The human vehicle contains three selves; your superconscious, conscious, and subconscious. In other words, your father, mother and child aspects of the self. Your father aspect, superconscious or high self, is the part of you that is in Heaven deciding they are to incarnate into this position. This aspect can be either gender but are filling a father role as the superconscious part of you. Along with God, they decide to become you. Together they determine the package, the purpose, the players, and the possibilities for this incarnation.

If you are not aligned with your superconscious, father aspect of yourself, you are not living on purpose and fully in your power.

The third most important father is the man who seeded your creation on Earth. Without his seed, you would not have the opportunity to be brought into the physical. Within that seed lies all his DNA providing you with enormous data to make up how you start out in the world. Through that DNA comes significant coding, memory, and programming shaping who you will become.

You can rely on the latter and the experiences that shape your development alone. Or, you can tap into the higher aspects of yourself and seize the fathers you also have within. When you allow them to operate through you, you become your best self and can achieve your true reasons for being.

People often struggle with connecting to God allowing that Source within to work through them. I also find that people often struggle with knowing and accepting their high selves, that superconscious mind, to adequately flow to and through them.

I love it when my clients really become connected to that Source within. They receive direct messages or, at least, begin to recognize the signs of divine intervention and inspiration. When they have begun to really know who they are and why they are here, they begin to soar and achieve fulfillment like never before. When I see my clients get in touch with those best aspects of themselves and see them flourish, it makes my heart sing.

Because our next group call has a special topic of men, the father aspect of all and the above will be included in the clearing as well. Our highest goal is always to have you become a pure vessel, connected to the highest aspects of yourself, to achieve your reason for being created. It's time to heal all old wounds that block that successful achievement of your mission to Earth.

When you know who you really are and why you are here and step into that fearlessly, you have fulfillment beyond the imaginable.

May you successfully achieve your true Earth mission...

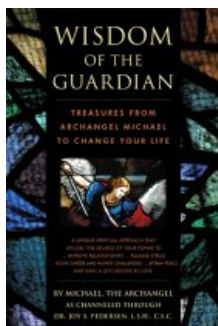

Love,

Joy
