Joyful News - August 5, 2020

Have you lost a loved one?

I realized today was the anniversary of my father's death in 2006. There are blessings and challenges with life and death. Using my father's life and death as an example, I wanted to shed a little additional light on both.

I was prompted to reread his obituary and two things stood out. One section stood out: "He served during World War II in the United States Navy on the destroyer USS Hale under gunnery officer Cyrus Vance, former Secretary of State to President Jimmy Carter. His ship helped protect the Queen Mary, which held the meeting between Stalin, Churchill and Roosevelt during World War II." To some that was an exciting part of his life. He fortunately had a fun experience in the Navy and loved sharing his varied stories with us. I particularly enjoyed taking my parents on a tour of the Queen Mary when I lived in Los Angeles and hearing that story. But, although that was part of his history, I believe his legacy was his honesty, optimism, and great sense of humor.

The idea of legacy reminded me of the purpose of coming to Earth. I wrote a report on "The Transition to Heaven" which shares the dynamics of dying and the return to Heaven and the experience once there. It also elaborates on the plans made before coming to Earth of what you are to accomplish while here. You can access that, amongst other reports at www.GiftsfromJoy.com.

Everyone comes with an agenda. Are you fulfilling yours? What will your legacy be? Many of my clients are searching for their purpose or are afraid of fulfilling theirs. A number of my clients are lightworkers, healers and coaches and it's not unusual for me to clear past life memories of persecution for them. Fear will unfortunately diminish anyone's light and lower their vibration. If people do nothing more than focus on raising their vibration, that is a contribution to the world. And, of course, it is always fulfilling when you accomplish your goals for being born.

The other thing that stood out from the obituary were family dynamics. He left behind three people who died since then. There were also two grandchildren added, and a third coming this month. Although his three grandchildren were married after he left, he was able to be present in everyone's life from the other side since his death. My aunt reincarnated into my grandniece. People reincarnating into their future relatives is common.

Since then, my father has been born and died again with great purpose. This is the story of an example of why some die young. <https://joypedersen.com/when-someone-dies-young/>

We are often attached to the idea that it is purposeful to live a long life. Possibly it was only necessary to live long enough to accomplish a purpose and earn the right to return home in a short time.

God told me the day my father died that he would visit me later that week with something profound to tell me. When he visited he said, "Heaven is better than the best day on Earth." And, every time I connect with my parents since, I see them as their younger selves and happy.

During our Q&A portion following our group healing call last Saturday, God answered a question which included this statement:

"People who die have earned the right to do that. It is a privilege to have been able to be here as well as return home to me. You perceive it as loss because they are gone from your physical presence. Life on Earth is so temporary and fleeting. When you live in eternity, it seems like a brief vacation that you are apart in comparison or closer to reality, only a trip to the bathroom. You all reconnect with your relatives and loved ones." ~ God

We have all experienced the missing, but possibly you can look at it from a little more brighter perspective going forward. You will reconnect so treasure the privilege and experience of having known them here, connect with them as you can now as they are still around in spirit, and look forward to when you will connect again in Heaven all according to divine timing.

Wishing you the wonder of life....

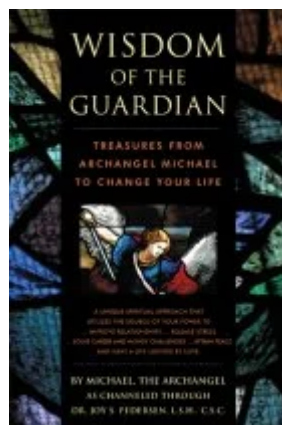

Love,

Joy
